Williams House, University of South Florida Campus
The Williams House at USF St. Petersburg was built by St. Petersburg founder John C. Williams. Williams is remembered as the father of St. Petersburg because a large part of the original city grew from his extensive land holdings.
Built in 1890-91 in the Queen Anne style, the Williams House was considered a mansion at the time. It features elaborate gingerbread trim, shaped wooden shingles, an ornate cupola, carved doorways and interiors etchings. It was placed on the National register of Historic Places in 1975. To prevent demolition, the Williams House was moved to the campus in 1995 and renovated with support from the Florida Bureau of Historic Preservation.
